Students try to unite janitor, family

His wife, daughters unable to emigrate from Vietnam

By Natalie Shore

In quiet moment, Phiet Tat Tran, a janitor at Imperial Junior High in Ontario, told a teacher about his lonely, seven-year struggle to obtain the release of his wife and two daughters from communist Vietnam.

Now hundreds of students and their teachers have come to his aid.

More than 400 Imperial students and faculty members signed petitions Thursday urging local, state and federal officials to pressure the Vietnamese government into letting Tran's wife and two teenage daughters go.

age daughters go.

The students' efforts have lifted his spirits and renewed hope that his family will be reunited in the United States, the 50-year-old refugee said.

"I am grateful," he said.

Originally from North Vietnam, Tran's family fled to Saigon to escape the communist takeover of the north. Five years after South Vietnam fell to the communists in 1975, he and his two sons fled to Thailand.

Tran and his sons were among those known internationally as "boat people." The crowded conditions and fears of looting and rape from pirates kept women off the boats, Tran said. "When I fled from Vietnam, the boat was robbed four times."

The boat trip to Thailand, the closest free world country, took five days

"My boat consisted of 72 people. It was 12 meters long and 3 meters wide. I could not move my leg," he said. "
In February 1981, Tran and

In February 1981, Tran and his sons were finally allowed to emigrate to the United States. Tran took with him the memories of two years in a concentration camp in Vietnam and 10 months in a refugee camp in Thailand.

Tran became an American citizen in 1986.

No solution seen to Upland's traffic woes

By David Madsen

There appears to be no immediate solution to the traffic congestion problems facing one of the oldest areas in Upland.

Particularly hard hit during recent years has been the city's southeast section, located south of Foothill Boulevard and east of Euclid Avenue.

Development and rapid growth in surrounding cities have started to overload many of the major routes through the area, according to a recent traffic study the city commissioned.

The study recommends widening Arrow Highway, Campus Avenue and Eighth Street to four lanes each, to eliminate the area's problems.

"The initial improvement need is to increase capacity on Arrow Highway. Providing increased capacity on Campus Avenue would be the second priority followed by the improvement of Eighth Street," according to the study by Weston Pringle and Associates of Fullerton.

However, the high financial and political costs of obtaining the necessary right-of-ways, make any such projects unlikely in the near future.

"We don't have the money and we don't have the right-of-ways," said City Engineer Fred Blanchard.

"We would need a study on how much it would cost to widen the streets and really do some long looking where we are with our cash flow," he added. However, there is no immediate hope of getting any of the projects started soon, he said

"Our five year capital improvment plan is already scheduled for other projects like widening Mountain Avenue. We've never had a project for this," Blanchard said.

Because of the huge construction costs involved, the only way the city could afford the poject, would be by putting the area into a redevelopment zone, he added.

Blanchard also warned that any widening project could be controversial because it would force people to be relocated from their homes along some portions of road.

Several council members have also voiced skepticism about any project being completed

"I don't see how this community will be able to widen Arrow within 10 or 15 years," By Suzanne Sproul

Danny Andreas seems to have always had the love of music bottled up somewhere inside him

Despite being born legally blind - although glasses enable him to read large print and with a hearing impairment that requires an aid. Andreas used to spend hours in his room listening to music on

But it wasn't until the 14-yearold special education student shrugged off his classmates' warnings one day and rattled off a song on an empty piano in his music class that everyone realized his talents.

School music teacher Craig Olsen defines Danny's special ability simply as perfect pitch.

"He doesn't have any kind of musical ability but somehow he just knows," said Olsen, as he played a note on his classroom piano. He asked Danny several times to find the same note. He stumbled at first but finally did it successfully.

"He has perfect pitch. I don't know what the odds of that are but I think they must be either one 1 in 10,000 or 1 in 100,000. They say that sometimes when a person is born without one sense or it's impaired that another sense becomes more tuned. I don't know," Olsen

In addition to finding the right pitch, Danny has the ability to hear a piece of music, remember it and then reproduce it on the piano.

He uses only two or three fingers on both of his hands to play. His fine-mobility skills are considered poor.

But somehow Danny's a musician, even without any formal musical training. He simply enjoys the music and plays what comes naturally.

During a recent impromptu iam session at school. Danny let loose with performances of 'Kansas City," "Blue Suede Shoes," and a rousing version of "La Bamba" that probably would have made Richie Valens smile.

His performance brought a healthy round of applause from his fellow classmates. It seems Danny has become a bit of a celebrity around campus. He's played during school assemblies for students and parents

'I've always listened to the radio but I started playing when I got a piano in 1984. I like my music and other people seem to like it, too," said a friendly Danny Danny's music not only makes him happy, but it seems to have helped bring him out of his shell.

"I think Danny is really remarkable. He's self-taught. He plays the song exactly like he hears it on the radio. He even fades out just like you hear songs fade out on the radio," said his teacher Rob Walters "He used to be normally quiet but he seems to have opened him up. He tended to be a loner who had little self-esteem. Showing his classmates that he can play and knowing how much they appreciate him has really meant a lot to him. See MUSIC/Page 6

OMSD classified workers vote to keep union representation

By Natalie Shore

The struggle for union leadership in the Ontario-Montclair School District was decided recently when classified workers overwhelmingly voted to keep the California School Employees Association as their exclusive bargaining representative.

Out of the 462 ballots returned, 312 workers voted to keep CSEA. The Ontario-Montclair Educational Support Personnel, the dissenting faction affiliated with the California Teachers Association, drew 142 votes. The eight remaining votes were cast for no representation.

The strong show of support was not surprising, said Howard Lawrence, state-level CSEA organizing director.

"It says that the people believe that CSEA is their union," he said

The employees have chosen their union, said Jean Lowery, OMESP spokesperson. "We congratulate CSEA and wish them well," she said.

Dissatisfaction with CSEA leadership, particularly during recent contract negotiations, prompted the decertification election. At least 30 percent of the chapter membership must petition for an election

The election's outcome has reaffirmed CSEA's strong base, but it also has made union leaders aware of the need to strengthen communication, said Jack Metcalf, CSEA field representative

'CSEA considers this the beginning not the end, and we intend to work very hard to heal the wounds, to bring the CTA supporters back into the fold and to make this one of the strongest chapters in the state," Metcalf said.

Lowery agreed that the election process prompted better communication and CSEA representation in recent months. "It is our hope that this renewed effort on behalf of all classified employees will continue.

Both sides predict the process has served to unify the group of more than 700 workers. "The chapter will come out of the experience much stronger, united and able to better fulfill its purpose which is to improve the quality of life of our members," he said.

Foothill Freeway Refugee/from Page 1 extension viewed

By Natalie Shore

The merits of completing Route 30 were debated by area residents who gathered at the Rancho Cucamonga Neighborhood Center recently to discuss their concerns about the 35-year-old Foothill Freeway project.

After hearing the latest information on the 28-mile freeway extension, residents raised old concerns

Upland resident Barry Gray criticized freeway planners for not considering a light-rail project using existing Santa Fe lines. His comments drew applause.

'The land's there. The property's there. It (a light-rail system) can be done much more efficiently," Gray said.

Ora Lampman, another Upland resident and a friend of Gray's, disagreed. He asked the crowd how many of them would ride a train to their place of business.

"It's not necessarily that effective ... just like the BART in San Francisco. We're so oriented to automobile traffic we're going to have to be blasted out of our automobiles before we change,

Nearly 90 residents and city officials from Upland, Rancho Cucamonga, La Verne and Fontana attended. They debated the problems of noise, traffic, property devaluation and

The corridor would extend the Foothill (210) Freeway east from La Verne to the Devore (15) Freeway. Although construction of the corridor remains to be funded, the San Bernardino Association of Governments or SANBAG held the open forum to solicit and encourage public support.

The group first heard a description of the project from Donald Capelle, a representative of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas, an Orange Countybased engineering firm.

"There is a need. We have it documented," Capelle told residents. By the year 2010, the current population of 800,000 will double and the area will see 600,000 new jobs, he said.

Capelle estimated the freeway would cost at least $450 to $500 million.

Locals also heard from Sylvia Salenius, a planner of P & D Technologies, who reviewed environmental issues that must be studied before any construction is approved

Residents who favor the corridor expressed concern that it may take up to 20 years to complete the project. It would take about five years of planning before construction actually would begin, Capelle said.

The open forum also was sponsored by Caltrans.

would like to see him and his family reunited," she said.

All honor students, Narang, Brenda Elizondo, Taylor Malungahu and Monica Avila will continue to circulate petitions

Along with the petitions, letters will be forwarded to Gov.

George Deukmejian, Sens. Pete Wilson and Alan Cranston, state Sen. Ruben Ayala, and the American Embassy in Bangkok, which handles the release of Vietnamese immigrants.

Of the four, Narang, Malungahu and Avila have been separated from family members

Narang's family emigrated from India, and Avila's family from Mexico.

Students want to do everything possible to help Tran, they said. When the petitions are passed around, "they just start signing," Malungahu said.

R.C. residents to be surveyed on paramedics

Rancho Cucamonga mailboxes, no strangers to questionnaires, will be delivered yet one more survey when residents are asked if they want their fire agency to staff paramedics.

And if they want to pay for it. The public paramedics question in Rancho Cucamonga's brief history always has centered around the anticipated hefty expense of a complete program.

The first survey completed indicated that of all the various programs, residents would prefer engine company paramedics who will work both in firefighting and medical aid rather than paramedic squads which are devoted to medical emergencies.

It is not known how much such a paramedics program will cost.

Foothill Fire Protection District Division Chief Ron Mayfield said the paramedic services provided by Mercy Ambulance have been excellent. But Foothill engine company paramedics would be able to reach medical emergencies quicker and be able to perform rescue operations which private paramedics cannot

The survey, say Foothill officials, will do more than just ask "Do you want to spend more money?" The survey seeks to the survey subject can base his decision

Bill Alexander, a director for the fire district, said his agency must expand to cope with the city's growth and cannot afford to have its own paramedics.

Further, Alexander said while he has not closed his mind to paramedics, the district should not start its own program now in light of its impending takeover by the city of Rancho Cucamonga.

The takeover proposal is in the county Local Agency Formation Commission's court and the district and the city are waiting to consider the merger.

Alexander and Mayfield agree that Mercy Ambulance is doing a good job. Mayfield said it makes sense to establish fire district paramedics to protect the community in case the private supplier ever decides to leave the city for any reason.

Alexander is a captain with the Ontario Fire Department, which provides the only fire department paramedics in the West Valley

Speaking from experience, he said paramedics programs are expensive. But he could support paramedics if it could be done at a low cost

Foothill Chief Dennis Michael said any paramedics program would have to go before the voters for their approval of a special paramedics tax

Skateboarding may be banned on city streets

By David Madsen

The Upland City Council last week proposed to ban skateboard riding on city streets, following the death of a youth who was hit by a car last month.

The council instructed City Attorney Don Maroney to draft an ordinance to prohibit skateboards, roller-skates, scooter and tricycles on roadways and other posted

"We want to keep them off the streets and out of shopping centers and to keep them from knocking the old people down," said Mayor Robert Nolan.

On May 15, 11-year old Joshua Forgit was killed after he rode his skateboard out of a driveway into traffic at the intersection of Arrow Highway and Campus

There have been a total of five fatalities and one major injury to skateboarders on city streets since 1975, according to a report by Upland Police Chief Coy D.

The council's Police and Fire Committee formulated the proposed restrictions at its May 31 meeting, after confering with Estes, said Councilman Al Canestro.

"I've noticed a preponderant number of youngsters riding on the roadways," Canestro said.

Resident Carol Johnson urged the council to create "safe" places for skateboarders to ride in the city.

"We need to find a place for these kids to ride their skateboards. Skateboards keep them off drugs and out of trouble," Johnson said.

Currently, it is not against the law to ride skateboards in streets or on city sidewalks.

'The state vehicle code allows citations to be issued only when skateboarders impede traffic or are hitching a ride on a vehicle," Upland Police Officer Greg Doyle

However, state law does allow local ordinances to be passed to regulate such activities.

The downtown business district and the civic center are the only areas where skateboard riding on sidewalks is prohibited.

The council also failed to muster enough votes to change the designation of a single family 10.6 acre tract at Arrow Highway and Campus Avenue, to multi-unit density to permit apartment buildings to be built.

The council vote was split with Councilman Frank

Carpenter and Nolan opposing the measure and Councilman Thomas McGilloway and Councilwoman Rosalie Kamansky supporting the change.

Councilman Canestro abstained.

Planning Director Jeff Bloom urged the council to approve the change to prevent the older neighborhood from detriorating.

'That neighborhood is leaning toward a higher and higher number of absentee landlords. I don't think improvements will be made in that area unless landlords can improve (increase the value) of their properties," he

"We're creating an island in the middle of a muliple zoned area," said McGilloway.

The neighborhood is one of only two "islands" of singlefamily residential areas in the southeast corner of the city, Bloom said.

Mike Thuis, a San Bernardino County mobility teacher who works with Walters, said, "It's amazing that no one knew about this before. Here's a kid who people thought wasn't getting anything out of class or life and now look at him. He's been getting everything. It proves you can't make assumptions about kids like Danny because you can Walters said he's encouraged Danny's mother to allow him to pursue his music.

"It's a real gift for everyone," the teacher said.

But Danny said he'd rather not. Why take formal music lessons and maybe ruin everything?

"I don't think I want to do anything but just play. When I'm playing my music I think I'm entertaining people. I'm using my abilities to the fullest extent I can. I think I'm fine right where I am. Pitch is what really matters to me. You have a high pitch or a low pitch. If you have those you've got the music in your head," Danny said.

Upland officer's new partner has a nose for crime

By Lori Moody

Upland police Officer Mark Wilson says his new partner has a "really good nose."

Which actually is a desirable trait for a German shepherd whose job may entail searching for a burglar in a darkened building or looking for a gun dropped by a fleeing robber.

Upland residents may catch a glimpse of the city's first four-legged crime fighter, known as Alf, as he begins cruising the streets today.

Alf, who is about 2-years-old, completed a four-week basic training course Friday with Wilson, his handler.

The dog will be used for searches and officer protection and is expected to undergo additional training in a few months to learn to sniff out parcetics

"I think most of the officers are anxious for (the dog) to get out there," Capt. Merle Arneson said recently.

The dog lives with Wilson, 33, and his family. The officer, a inyear veteran of the force, sought the position as handler and was chosen after an interview with department officials.

Wilson, who helped select Alf, said he expects there will be some pressure at first as he gets used to working with a partner. The dog will continue training on a weekly basis.

"There's so much to learn for both of us," Wilson said.

The Upland canine unit now joins the ranks of others among area police agencies. In the past, Upland has had to rely on those agencies when a police dog was needed in the city.

"We've had a real good working relationship with surrounding agencies," Arneson said. "We've seen the success they've had."

The approximately $6,000 cost for the dog and the training was funded through a donation by the Upland Noon Kiwanis Club.

Police obtained the Germanborn dog in April from Master K-9 in Crestline. The dog and his handler went through an initial bonding period before starting basic training earlier this month.

The handler's salary, the dog's care and equipment, such as modifications to a patrol car for the canine unit, are paid through the city. Earlier this year, police officials said that funds are available through a fund comprised of money or property seized in drug raids.

Changes to the officer's car included replacing the rear seat with a platform, installing screens over the windows and adding a remote door opener which can be operated by the officer when he is away from the car.

The canine unit will work primarily evenings but could be subject to call. If the first canine team is a success, police officials hope to expand the detail, Arneson said.

The dog "looks to be real beneficial in the area of narcotics," Arneson said. "So many times they hide the stuff so well. Even with cars. During a traffic stop, the dog may alert to something the officer is not aware of."

Sgt. Dan Emerson, coordinator of the canine program, said there are other advantages in using a dog in law enforcement.

RELINIONS

WWII women

In commemoration of the upcoming 50th anniversary of World War II, the following people are preparing a book based on the letters which women wrote to service personnel.

Those involved in writing the book would appreciate hearing from anyone who has access to such letters and would be interested in sharing them with the public.

Interested people can write, Judy Barrett Litoff, Professor of History, Bryant College, Smithfield, Rhode Island, 02917 or David C. Smith, Professor of History, University of Maine, Orono, Me, 04469.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed. Your authorized dealer may call. So write today to: Dept. 85205. Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

The only way to fulfill a dream is to start working on it. eam

For kids age 11 and older, The Daily Report offers the unique opportunity of being a newspaper carrier. It's a job that can put kids with the right attitude on the road to fullfilling dreams like being able to buy their own bikes, or having some extra money to buy other things they would like to have.

Are you a kid with a dream? If so, join the hundreds of west valley kids who already earn their own "dream-fulfilling" extra cash and still have plenty of time for other activities after working just a few hours each day.

So keep dreaming and get moving!

Just a few lines in Classified can make a world of a difference in someone's life.

Yes, there will always be someone in your community who needs what you have to sell or give away. Find that someone the fast and easy way by simply putting a classified ad in The Daily Report.

We will always be ready to help, and we will be waiting to hear from you. Until then, just keep thinking about what The Daily Report Classified can do for you, and for someone else. It helps to think both ways.
